

“In the past, I could not afford to hire a day laborer and was obligated to burden my children with farming. I waited for the school holidays to do certain tasks. But now, I do the farm work by myself and pay a day laborer in cash.”

-Pierre

“In the past, I could not afford to hire a day laborer and was obligated to burden my children with farming. I waited for the school holidays to do certain tasks. But now, I do the farm work by myself and pay a day laborer in cash.”

-Pierre

Gifts to Cents-Ability (H000107) make a real difference in the lives of people like Pierre from Cameroon. In just one year, your donations of nickels and pennies allowed PHP to give nearly $48,000 in grants.

One of those grants went to the Joining Hands Network in Cameroon, RELUFA, which in turn reached Pierre. Over the last ten years Pierre had been evicted three times to make place for plantations of a transnational fruit business. Impoverished by the recurrent losses and anxious to stay out of the company's grip, he had recently decided to establish a new farm well beyond the boundaries of the huge agricultural estate. Pierre's participation in the RELUFA Fair Trade dried fruit project, which sells to consumers in the United States as well as Cameroon, not only meant he was able to relieve his children of the burden of labor and send them to school, but also left his family with a sense of financial stability they hadn't known before. The price on the local market fluctuates from one day to the other, which makes it impossible for farmers to do projections. "But RELUFA pays a set price that suits both the farmers and the dryers." says Pierre "Once we have set a price it can take six months before it may need to be reviewed. Altogether," Pierre says, "there is no comparison."

Many presbyteries use their Cents-Ability money for local hunger projects. When sent to the PHP office, half of the funds raised for Cents-Ability go to national projects and half are used for international projects. For a complete list of projects funded by Cents-Ability and to learn more about starting a Cents-Ability program please visit www.pcusa.org/centsability.

Presbyterian Church (USA)
100 Witherspoon St
Louisville KY 40202
www.pcusa.org/hunger

Gifts to Cents-Ability (H000107) make a real difference in the lives of people like Pierre from Cameroon. In just one year, your donations of nickels and pennies allowed PHP to give nearly $48,000 in grants.

One of those grants went to the Joining Hands Network in Cameroon, RELUFA, which in turn reached Pierre. Over the last ten years Pierre had been evicted three times to make place for plantations of a transnational fruit business. Impoverished by the recurrent losses and anxious to stay out of the company's grip, he had recently decided to establish a new farm well beyond the boundaries of the huge agricultural estate. Pierre's participation in the RELUFA Fair Trade dried fruit project, which sells to consumers in the United States as well as Cameroon, not only meant he was able to relieve his children of the burden of labor and send them to school, but also left his family with a sense of financial stability they hadn't known before. The price on the local market fluctuates from one day to the other, which makes it impossible for farmers to do projections. "But RELUFA pays a set price that suits both the farmers and the dryers." says Pierre "Once we have set a price it can take six months before it may need to be reviewed. Altogether," Pierre says, "there is no comparison."

Many presbyteries use their Cents-Ability money for local hunger projects. When sent to the PHP office, half of the funds raised for Cents-Ability go to national projects and half are used for international projects. For a complete list of projects funded by Cents-Ability and to learn more about starting a Cents-Ability program please visit www.pcusa.org/centsability.

Presbyterian Church (USA)
100 Witherspoon St
Louisville KY 40202
www.pcusa.org/hunger