Betsey and Eric Moe

Serving Christ together in Guatemala

Betsey is working as a facilitator for the Intercultural Encounters Program of the Protestant Center for Pastoral Studies in Central America (CEDEPCA). CEDEPCA provides North American church groups, theological seminarians, and college/university students the opportunity to discover Guatemala in all its diversity, beauty, and complexity, and to experience the everyday life of Guatemalans through immersion programs. Betsey is part of the team that receives visiting groups, plans and facilitates their educational program and itinerary, interprets, and leads reflection discussions. Eric has been a professional musician in the U.S., playing and teaching trumpet in the community and church and looks forward to using music to connect with people in Guatemala. Eric will also serve in ministry in the home with the Moes' three school-age children.
