

Jonathan Freeman

Support Jonathan

Read Jonathan's blog

Hi, my name is Jonathan Freeman, and I'm excited to say I'll be serving as a YAV in Indianapolis this year. I'm twenty-two years old, and recently graduated from Presbyterian College with a major in Christian Education, and a minor in German. I grew up around Atlanta, but lived in Clinton, SC for most of the last four years, with a six-month stint in Karlsruhe, Germany while studying abroad there.

I'm really interested in the challenge and gift of meeting and getting to know people from other backgrounds, because I think it's a crucial part of growing up, learning, and living out our divine call to love and support others fully, and that experience is part of what I hope to bring back with me at the end of my YAV year. At Presbyterian College, I learned under the motto, "While we live, we serve," and that is part of why I chose to do a YAV year. Whatever else I manage to gain from my experience, I know I'll be doing good work, for good reasons, and I am greatly looking forward to that.