

Megan Canfield

Select Language

Powered by  Translate

Support Megan

Read Megan's Blog

Hi! My name is Megan Canfield: lover of peanut butter milkshakes, classic rock and USA today crossword puzzles. At Wilmington College, I studied political science, communications and psychology. As a hands-on learner, my college experience took me to Washington, D.C., on several occasions and inspired me to intern there for a summer. As my May 2017 graduation date draws closer, I feel even more certain about my call to Little Rock, Arkansas, and my call to prioritize my relationship with Christ in new and intentional ways. As an Ohio native, I appreciate the serenity of a small town while still being enthralled and inspired by big cities. My passion for God's creation, public policy and peace has borne in me a determination to bring about a brighter future for all of God's children. I'm heading into my year of service with open hands and an open heart, ready to follow where God leads.