Re-Formation
Post-Pandemic Resources for planning and reflection

Here are some resources for church professionals, volunteers, committees, and others as you continue to live into this post pandemic world of Christian Formation and what it means for your communities of faith and context. These are additional inputs that may be helpful. Please consider using this new resource Post Pandemic Pondering and Planning – A Guide to Faith Re-Formation first as a way to brainstorm, reflect, and act in reformation post pandemic.

Evaluation Tools
- What Next? This is a creative tool to help ministries and communities of faith re-imagine our programs and life together. This tool will help you identify and discern creative new approaches, new ministries and new ways of being the big C church in a post-pandemic age with an eye to outreach and your surrounding community. The tool was created in a partnership between the Office of Christian Formation and RootedGood.org.

Scattered Church Resources from Theology, Formation, and Evangelism

As the COVID-19 pandemic stretches into months of imagining and reimagining the ways we gather as disciples of Jesus, the offices that make up the Office of Theology, Formation, and Evangelism ministry area have worked to gather resources to help congregational and new worshiping community leaders consider both theological and practical resources that provide shape and grounding for our efforts to answer the call of Christ to the Church in this moment.
