Ruth Brown

Serving Christ in Ghana

Ruth Brown is a community health facilitator working in Ghana's Northern Region with the Evangelical Presbyterian Church of Ghana. She supports the church in creating sustainable, community-based programs of health promotion and disease prevention. She and her partners in Ghana help community members build and maintain coalitions that offer Christian education and leadership training for the development of sustainable public health programs. "I'm thoroughly convinced that coalitions, guided by God and focused on the common good, can accomplish anything," she says.
