

Allie Green

Select Language

Powered by  Translate

Support Allie

Read Allie's blog

My name is Allie Green, and I'm a native of Clinton, North Carolina, a small town about an hour from everywhere. For the last four years, however, I've called Chapel Hill, North Carolina, home. I recently graduated from UNC-Chapel Hill, where I not only studied public policy and communication, but also realized my passion for social justice through my involvement in campus ministry and partnerships with local nonprofits. As much as I cherish the time I've had in Chapel Hill, I'm excited to trade my comfortable college town for a bustling, unfamiliar city in a new state. I can't wait to call Atlanta home.