My name is Harim Um. I am a 21-year old from York, Pennsylvania. In May 2018, I will be graduating from Temple University with a Bachelor of Science in biology and a minor in clinical and health psychology. Stepping out into the working world, I find myself stuck frozen on how to take the first step into this new world. But I do not want to remain stagnant as the world around me continues to change and evolve with the changing times. God has chosen a path that we all will travel down. Though I know that He has a future for me, I still find myself struggling to wrap my mind around that certainty with the uncertainties of the present day and elusive future. For 2018-19, I will be serving as a Young Adult Volunteer in Denver, Colorado. As I struggle through new experiences and help a diversity of people, I hope to find where God has called me to be in the future.
