

Kori Robbins

Select Language

Powered by  Translate

Support Kori

Read Kori's blog

My name is Kori Robbins, and I'm a 24-year-old from the small community of Anaconda, Montana, an old mining town in the southwest corner. I earned my degree in history from Montana State University in 2015, and as of fall 2017, have been working toward my master's in American studies. When I grow up, I'd like to work in a museum, either as a curator or an exhibit director (or both!). After graduating college, I joined the workforce, but have recently decided to pursue a year of service. I'm trading in the Rocky Mountains for skyscrapers, and I'm looking forward to spend my year in New York City. During this year, I hope to say hello to new experiences, new ideas and new friends!